WELCOME!

Welcome to the third edition of MIGF at the FIU School of Music. It is my honor and privilege to serve as Artistic Director of MIGF. Thanks to the generous Knight Arts Challenge Award from the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation, we are celebrating Miami’s Cuban heritage and dedicating this year’s festival to Cuban music.

The MIGF has been a successful annual event thanks to all the guest artists, our generous sponsors at all levels, our tireless student volunteers, and our audiences. Without you, it wouldn’t have been possible for us to accomplish this tremendous task of organizing a major international festival and making it a successful contribution to the lives of South Florida residents and to the music and guitar world. Thank you so much for sharing our excitement and joy of being part of this great festival.

We present you an extraordinary group of artists from Cuba and all around the world in 2018, including one of Cuba’s most influential musicians, virtuoso guitarist and composer Eduardo Martín along with René Izquierdo (Cuba/U.S.), Iliana Matos (Cuba/Canada), Elliot Fisk (Boston, U.S.), Marcin Dylla (Poland), and many more. A lo cubano, the festival opening concert, on Monday, February 19th, will feature several festival artists performing solo and chamber works by Cuban composers, as well as U.S. premieres by Fredrick Kaufman and Orlando Jacinto Garcia. We will be honoring the musical legacy of Maestro Leo Brouwer with a Tribute Concert, featuring the FIU Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Javier Jose Mendoza, who will also premiere a new guitar concerto by Carlos Rafael Rivera, commissioned by the MIGF, with soloists Marcin Dylla and René Izquierdo. Eduardo Martín will be closing the festival with his duo partner daughter Galy Martín, joined by another Cuban virtuoso, Iliana Matos.

The MIGF annual composition competition concluded with the winning composition “Three Portals” by Cengiz Eren (Turkey) this year. Additionally, I am pleased to announce the inaugural Concert Artist Performance Competition (CAPC) which welcomes guitarists of all ages and nationalities. In addition to presenting concerts, the festival artists will present masterclasses and lectures, which will give you informative and entertaining opportunities to study with master musicians and learn more about the guitar music, technique, repertoire, recording, and music business. You can also see and try out wonderful guitars presented by the international guitar makers and vendors during the Luthiers Expo.

I hope you enjoy all the exciting events during the seven-day festival, as we celebrate Miami’s Cuban heritage through music, our beloved instrument, and Art in general.

Sincerely,

Mesut Özgen
Artistic Director and Founder
Bienvenidos a la tercera edición del MIGF en la FIU School of Music. Es un honor y un privilegio servir como el Director Artístico del MIGF. Gracias al generoso premio (Knights Arts Challenge Award) ofrecido por la Fundación John S. y James L. Knight, celebramos este año el patrimonio cubano de Miami y le dedicamos el festival a la música cubana.

Gracias a la alta calidad de los artistas invitados, a nuestros generosos patrocinadores, al trabajo incansable de estudiantes voluntarios, y a nuestra audiencia, el MIGF, en ya su tercera edición, ha siempre gozado de éxito. Sin ustedes no hubiéramos podido lograr esta hercúlea tarea de organizar un festival internacional de gran escala y hacer un aporte en la vida cultural de los residentes del sur de la Florida, y en el mundo de la guitarra y la música en general. Gracias por compartir nuestro entusiasmo siendo parte de este gran festival.

Les presentamos un extraordinario conjunto de artistas de Cuba y del mundo. Entre estos artistas están Eduardo Martín, guitarrista virtuoso, compositor, y uno de los músicos más influyentes de Cuba, René Izquierdo (Cuba/E.U.), Iliana Matos (Cuba/Canadá), Eliot Fisk (Boston, E.U.), Marcin Dylla (Polonia), y muchos más. En A lo cubano, el concierto inaugural del lunes 19 de febrero, se presentarán piezas para solistas y para conjuntos de cámara de compositores cubanos, así como las premieres de composiciones de Fredrick Kaufman y Orlando Jacinto García. Le rendiremos honor al legado musical del Maestro Leo Brouwer con un concierto tributo, Tribute Concert, el miércoles 21 de febrero, con la presentación del FIU Symphony Orchestra bajo la dirección de Javier José Mendoza. El FIU Symphony Orchestra también participará En Rivera Concierto a Tres, el viernes 23 de febrero, en donde se estrenará un nuevo concierto para guitarra de Carlos Rafael Rivera, comisionado por el MIGF y con Marcin Dylla y René Izquierdo como solistas. En el concierto de clausura, el domingo 25 de febrero, Eduardo Martín compartirá el escenario con su hija y compañera de duo Galy Martín, y con otra virtuosa cubana, Iliana Matos.

El ganador de esta edición de nuestra competencia anual de composición es Cengiz Eren (Turquía), con “Three Portals”. Este año es mi honor el inaugurar la serie de competencias Concert Artist Performance Competition (CAPC), en la que pueden participar guitarristas de todas las edades y nacionalidades. Además de los conciertos, los artistas invitados impartirán clases magistrales y conferencias, en las que ustedes tendrán la oportunidad de aprender de músicos maestros sobre diversos temas como el repertorio y la técnica guitarrística, técnicas de grabación, y el negocio de la música. En el Luthiers Expo también tendrán la oportunidad de probar algunas de las mejores guitarras en el mercado.

Espero que disfruten de los grandes eventos durante este festival, en el que celebramos el patrimonio cubano de Miami a través de la música, nuestro querido instrumento, y el arte en general.

Sinceramente,

Mesut Özgen

*U.S. Premiere
Catalan Concertante by Fredrick Kaufman

In 1991 Fredrick Kaufman founded the St. Cyprien International Festival of the Performing Arts in the southwestern city of St. Cyprien, France. While there he visited Barcelona, in the Catalan region of Spain, where he heard a folk melody being sung by a child playing in the street. Upon his return to the United States he wrote a guitar quartet entitled Catalan Concertante which he dedicated to the city of St. Cyprien and its Mayor, Dr. Jacques Bouille. In it he decided to utilize elements of the Catalan folk melody he heard in Barcelona by taking its unmistakable rhythmic pattern and attaching it to a new and more chromatic melody of his own invention, thereby producing an eclectic theme that combines the simplicity of the folk tunes rhythm with the complexity of his freshly-created melody. When Kaufman was unable to secure a guitar quartet for the premiere performance in St. Cyprien he decided to re-score the work for string quartet.

The composition is written in one movement, a continuous ritornello-like structure with the rhythmic material of the principal theme acting as a common thread that weaves its way through all of the sections of the form. In the original guitar instrumentation, heard tonight, all four instruments alternately strum chords immediately before the recapitulation of the opening theme approximately two-thirds of the way through the piece. The work closes with a flamboyant coda, marked Piu Presto, which is also derived from the rhythm of the original folk tune. The scoring of the coda is of particularly reminiscent of flamenco-style guitar music, suggesting yet another association with Spanish folk music. This rhythmically-driven composition showcases each member of the quartet and explores a wide range of techniques for producing sound and color within the ensemble.

Since its premiere, Catalan Concertante has been revived and rescored so that there are now four different versions of the work: Guitar Quartet; String Quartet, String Orchestra with enriched harmonies and the latest version written last spring for 2 guitars, viola and cello.

Leo Brouwer (Juan Leovigildo Brouwer Mesquida)
[From Grove Music Online, written by Victoria Eli Rodríguez]

(b. Havana, March 1, 1939). Cuban composer, guitarist and conductor. In 1953 he began his studies in the guitar with Isaac Nicola, founder of the Cuban guitar school, and in 1955 he made his performance début. In the same year, and self-taught, he started to compose (e.g. Música para guitarra, cuerdas y percusión and Suite no.1 for guitar); his first works were published in 1956. He was awarded a grant (1959) for advanced guitar studies at the music department of the University of Hartford and for composition at the Juilliard School of Music in New York, where he was taught by Isadora Freed, J. Diemente, Joseph Ladone, Perschetti and Wolpe. In 1960 he started working in cinema, as head of the department of music in the Instituto Cubano del Arte e Industria Cinematográficos (ICAIC); he has written scores for more than 60 films. He was involved in setting up (1969) and running the Grupo de Experimentación Sonora at ICAIC, becoming the teacher and mentor of its members, who included Silvio Rodríguez, Milanés and other important figures of contemporary Cuban music. He worked as musical adviser for Radio Habana Cuba (1960–68) and for other Cuban institutions, and taught counterpoint, harmony and composition at the Conservatorio Municipal in Havana (1960–67). His book Síntesis de la armonía contemporánea was a core text in his classes.

Together with the composers Juan Blanco and Carlos Fariñas and the conductor Manuel Duchesne Cuzán, Brouwer launched the avant-garde music movement in Cuba in the 1960s. He has been the most significant promoter of the bi-annual Havana Concurso y Festival de Guitarra, and in 1981 he was appointed principal conductor of the Cuban National SO. He has also conducted many other foreign orchestras including the Berlin PO and the Orquesta de Córdoba, Spain, which, under his direction, was formed in 1992. He is a member of the Berlin Akademie der Künste, of UNESCO, of the Real Academia de Bellas Artes Nuestra Señora de la Angustias in Granada (1996) and Honoris Causa Professor of Art at the Instituto Superior de Arte de Cuba (1996). For his contribution to the Cuban and international music scenes he was awarded the Orden Félix Varela, the highest honour granted by the Cuban state for culture.

Three phases can be identified in Brouwer’s work: the first, nationalistic (1955–62); the second, avant-garde (1962–7); and a third in which avant garde elements diminish and, particularly after 1980, a creative process described by the composer as ‘new simplicity’ emerges. The first phase is characterized by the use of traditional musical forms, including sonata and variation form, and by tonal harmonic structures rooted in nationalism (e.g. in Homenaje a Manuel de Falla (1957), Tres danzas concertantes (1958) and Elegía a Jesús Menéndez (1960), among others). During this phase, despite the prevailing use of tonality, a tendency to structural fragmentation may be discerned, as well as the employment of several simultaneous tonal centres, a device that has remained throughout his output.

Though never lacking formal rigour, Brouwer’s works have in general sprung more from a sonic conception: ‘I use any form to help me find musical forms: that of a leaf, of a tree or geometric symbolisms. All these are also musical forms; despite the fact that my works appear very structured, what interests me is sound’. This concentration on the sensory, and an accompanying use of extra-musical formal sources, is most to the fore in Brouwer’s second phase, which was, with the Cuban avant garde in general, heavily influenced by the Polish school; he first heard this music at the Warsaw Autumn in 1961. Variantes for solo percussion and in particular Sonograma I for prepared piano typify this phase, which also included a brief turn towards serialism, in works such as Sonograma II and Arioso (Homenaje a Charles Mingus). Basic materials frequently comprise intervals of the 2nd, 4th and 7th and chords of superimposed 6ths, 9ths, 11ths and 13ths. Complex polyphonic textures dominate, with thematic independence retained within the different planes of sound, and a resultant richness in rhythmic conjunction. Other common devices include pedals, ostinatos, sequences and melodic and rhythmic echoing. One of Brouwer’s most important avant-garde works, which has become a major piece of the guitar literature, is the solo Elogio de la danza (1964). In two movements – Lento and Ostenato – it was originally composed for dance with choreography by Luis Trápaga; it makes reference to primitive dances and to mysticism and conveys an image of stamping feet and gyrations together with other dance elements.

Between 1967 and 1969 such works as Rem tene verba sequentur, Cántigas del tiempo nuevo and La tradición se rompe …, pero cuesta trabajo approach what would now be the postmodern, characterized by sharply defined contrasts in structure and texture and employing references to various historical periods. In La tradición se rompe …, pero cuesta trabajo, for example, the interpolation and superimposition of elements of such composers as Bach and Beethoven in a suggestive heterophony borders on caricature; further, the participation of the audience is invited with a persistent ‘sh’. All this is integrated into a process of thematic and instrumental development that evolves through a powerful, controlled aleatorism.

In the 1970s Brouwer continued to work on post-serial and aleatory ideas, for instance in La espiral eterna for guitar. But by the 1980s a ‘new simplicity’ had begun to take hold, involving neo-Romantic, minimalist and newly tonal elements. There is a marked lyricism in this third period, the use of varying nuclear cells to generate development, and the return of traditional forms exemplified in works like Canciones remotas, Manuscrito antiguo encontrado en una botella and La región más trasparente.

Concierto A Tres
In September of 2017, I began work on a commission initiated by Maestro Mesut Ozgen, Director of the Miami International GuitArt Festival, that would celebrate Cuba’s heritage. The work is the result of a grant for this season’s festival A Lo Cubano - a realization of Maestro Özgen’s vision, and part of his Knight Arts Challenge award from The Knight Foundation and Art Works grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Being of Cuban descent, I was thrilled to write a contemporary addition to the Classical Guitar Concerto repertoire, dedicated to three of today’s most renowned guitarists: Marcin Dylla, Denis Azabagic, and Rene Izquierdo. The Concierto a Tres is a 16 minute, three-movement concerto for Classical Guitar and Chamber Orchestra. My intention is to accessibly present Afro-Cuban, as well as Pan-American, idioms to a broader classical audience, while positively expanding the repertoire for guitar and orchestra. Concierto a Tres will be premiered this evening by the FIU Symphony Orchestra and Maestro Javier Jose Mendoza. Maestra Iliana Matos has graciously offered to perform the movement dedicated to Denis Azabagic for this premiere. I could not feel more privileged at her participation in this evening’s music.

Three Portals for classical guitar
HAKKI CENGIZ EREN
(b. 1984)

Celso Cano, guitar

Three Portals embodies a musical process that strives to achieve sonorities related to the natural spectra of different fundamentals. The piece begins in the realm of equal temperament, unstable in its harmonic and rhythmical construction. As the music begins its journey towards more and more stability, each new movement introduces a microtonal tuning of a single string that not only stretches the boundaries of different spectra, but also takes key notes out of equal temperament and places them into their spectrally more accurate contexts, in this case the natural harmonic series. Partials 1-7 are particular to the first movement; thus, one encounters an array of altered dominant 7th chords. The second movement expands the range of spectra further, incorporating the 9th and the 10th partials, sometimes resulting in pentatonic collections or half-diminished chords. The last movement continues the process, extending the possibility of sonorous combinations all the way up to the 21th partial.

MIRRORS
PIERRE BIBAULT

Tellur for classical guitar
TRISTAN MURAIL
(b. 1947)

La Cité des saules for electric guitar and sound transformation
HUGUES DUFOURT
(b. 1943)

Kahraba for electric guitar and electronics

*All movements are detailed after Zad Moultaka’s biography.

MIRRORS: Gesture. Body. Movement

In this solo program, Pierre BIBAULT explores different perspectives of contemporary music for guitar(s). The harshness of the sounds of the electric guitar contemplates the crystal sound of the classical guitar. One and the other are looking each other into a mirror, in which the two faces form one and the same reality, and where acoustic sounds intermingle with prerecorded, live or gesture self-generated electronic sounds. This concert offers a unique experience of Avant-Garde pieces for Classical and Electric Guitar by Tristan MURAIL, Hugues DUFOURT, Fausto ROMITELLI and Zad MOULTAKA, that the Performer puts in perspective, alternating his playing from one instrument to the other.

The concert also proposes the premiere of Kahraba, a new work for Electric Guitar by Zad MOULTAKA, commissioned by Pierre BIBAULT. The piece is exploring a new kind of music notation, more articulated around Gesture, movement and sound than on notes. Kahraba is not only a Musical work: it is also a piece of Art staying in Beirut, Lebanon, engraved in copper by the composer during the writing process, in the manner of old printing press. This technics induces a reverse writing by the Composer / Art Engraver, reminding not only the Mirror wanted by Pierre BIBAULT, but also the Arabic mother tongue writing of the composer.

The concert ends on a unique work combining composition and improvisation, where the Performer is connected to the computer by motion sensors. His own instrumental gesture generates a variety of electronic sounds in real time, with which he will interact. The binarity between the performer and the machine finds its unity in a new sound proposal. An auditory and a visual journey, an exploration of the senses. Welcome to modernity.

WABI-SABI DUO

In the true sense of wabi-sabi, where nothing lasts and nothing is finished, the International Wabi Sabi Duo (Dr. Sam Desmet, guitar & Dr. Emilio Rutllant, flute) continuously explores original repertoire and promotes new pristine compositions. The duo advocates compositions where both instruments show their potentiality and are equally represented. Therefore, goes back to the true meaning of chamber music.

Chilean flutist Dr. Emilio Rutllant is one of the most sought-after flutists in south Florida. He currently performs as principal flutist of the Miami City Ballet (Opus One Orchestra), South Florida Symphony, and the Boca Symphonia. As an active soloist, he has given recitals in North America, South America, and Europe. In the summer of 2013, he was given a private endowment to study with the principal flutist of the Teatro alla Scala, Marco Zoni in Milan, Italy.

Emilio earned both his Doctorate of Musical Arts degree and Master’s degree from the Frost School of Music at the University of Miami under the tutelage of Trudy Kane, former principal flutist of the Metropolitan Opera. He currently studies with Jeffrey Khaner, principal flutist of the Philadelphia Orchestra as a Professional Performance Certificate fellow at Lynn University.

With his first CD “study < > study”, Belgian guitarist Dr. Sam Desmet promoted and recorded guitar etudes and compositions of renowned composers such as Leo Brouwer, Angelo Gilardino and Simone Iannarelli, who praise the CD as an example of his refined musical personality. As a soloist and chamber music enthusiast, Dr. Desmet has performed in Belgium, France, the Netherlands, Germany, Taiwan and the United States.

Dr. Desmet studied music performance and music pedagogy at the Belgian Royal Conservatory and completed his Doctorate at the Florida State University. His publications can be found under Berben Italy and Production d’oz.
